Strange dynamic there I think he's good, but I've had blokes there, rockpave etc etc to finish and it's no no we don't want to do this that, to expensive yet they are paying rjs a variation to paint 4 bolts when they have outstanding works.
Seems to be a deliberate hold on things doesn't make sense

Over budget by around 20k. Plus others are coming in around the 90k mark with nearly no exclusions

The price we gave was based on not being able to start until the bridge goes in, 24hrs window and footings done after possession behind hoarding. This wasn't articulated in tender and others may not have considered it. Also AEO required for hoarding, I could probably get it down by 20k just to secure the work and chalk our name on the board

Ok fair enough. Absolutely cannot go ahead without tfnsw there, lets make sure they understand that.

Im just going into an appointment with an eye specialist, will be without vision in one eye until sometime this afternoon. Depending how i am going I will try get across for 2pm (as long as I can see)!

Go ahead this afternoon? I can't get there until 2pm absolute earliest. Transport will need to be there as well, can Shane and Zoe make it? If not may be best to apologise for the confusion and reschedule for tomorrow or another day (would be best at this stage).

Transport are happy for it to go ahead. James and Kaye will be there and can wait for you or start without you.
They are worried delaying it may make him more disgruntled.
Zoe is getting back to me on their attendance

If you guys get a notice to proceed for Canley Vale today, is that all you need? Or will your commercial and legal people need to review documentation which will add time before Arcadis can organise the plant?

Kevin, it's definitely going out tonight. We have agreed with Comms regarding the notification and Brenden and Procurement have informed me it will go out tonight. Brenden has informed Andrew Bedwani. I understand these are just words until we see it tonight. Let me know what this means and if Arcadis can still do the work. George

Absolutely, I debriefed Brenden and he is of the opinion to just follow the AFC and remove the redundant services since this has been priced in.

Well what we are saying is that we physically won't be able to remove. As such they will be left in place and DSS updated accordingly. As they are mostly direct buried.

Sounds like we are going to be asked to do thr ATS etc by Sydney Trains, will need TfNSW to kill that conversation with them. Thanks

But it runs in glt along the Cess to the SS. Anything along the platform would be easily removed as you are rectifying it. Not sure where the difficulty is. Call me to discuss when you are free

Hi George
Final review today our side (we needed to ensure design pricing was fair) and planning to submit this afternoon.

Dont think there is a rush for it now that we have POD being submitted as per original design?

Ok thats a bit different to the email correspondence last week, as suggested its a variation which should not hold up the main works. Your call, just bear in mind it couls result in delays to programme.

If the price is ridiculous then it's an easy call if not then the design needs updating. We have to compare it to the cost to remove redundant services so please have this available as it's not in the BOQ

Its a part of the overall estimate. In any case we won't know if the removal is possible until such times as we try to remove the cable. It can only be assessed then.

POD should ve submitted ans approved regardless of variations to the scope. If the VPR goes ahead its then a case of updating the approved POD

Cheers

Kevin, we cannot decide unless we have this cost which should be in the BOQ anyway. It will be a waste of time to just have the cost of the ATS solution alone as the service removal cost is the comparison. George

It's different to the one I submitted for review. Item 29 is totally different to what we suggested and references a continuous canopy.

Thats what we need tfnsw there for - to manage him and expectations

Need to get on top of the housekeeping mate, had Steve Hayes and another lot of photos from this morning. Please get all subbies and us to do a proper clean up and refresh today.

Couple things for pre-testing next week

Pre test to be done Wed and Thurs with Friday a contingency

Need bucket truck fir Steve etc to get up. Can you organise one that will fit down at the UGOHs city end. Mossy or similar not the big 23m stick, its too big. 18m boom ideal. Will need him 8.30 till 5 each day

Also, will need stockpile cleared from access road before next week otherwise cant get in (see photos)
