

Who might have been responsible for that process at the time at ALP head office?---With Kenrick, probably Kenrick Cheah or other people who actually doing all of, all of those other, I don't know who actually doing all this recordings or accountings or whatever it is. So, they might be someone doing it.

Possibly Kenrick Cheah?---Possibly, yeah.

10 Can you please turn to the next page in the bundle, which is the 11th page.
---Yeah.

And it has an 82 at the bottom.---Yep, yep.

Can you see that this is a reservation form completed in the name of Steve Tong?---Yep.

Do you know Steve Tong?---I'm not sure if that is, that person that I am, I, I am sort of like recollecting.

20 Who are you recollecting?---Another Steve but I can't remember his surname quite well. Yeah, but he works in, in Emperor's Garden.

What's his job in Emperor's Garden?---He's a waiter. He's a, a head waiter or manager.

And his first name is Steve?---Steve, yes. That's what we usually call him. I'm, I'm not sure. I'm, I'm, I can't say that would exactly be that one but that's only one that I can think of but, you know.

30 Do you think it unusual that a waiter would donate $5,000 to the Labor Party?---Not at all. A lot of the, the, the, the, you know, in hospitality, as I said before, they receive a lot of tips. Like, you know they usually receive money and they have side business as well. I, I am not saying particularly for this Steve because I don't know exactly what's, what's the story, but a lot of the Chinese, particularly people who, who are working in hospitality will have a lot of tips, like we talked about Chinese New Year, they'll be receiving hundreds and hundred dollars of, of tips. When I say tips, we call, we called it red packets. Usually it comes in $20 or $50, $100 from 40 customers and I don't know if that's something helpful but for, for a lot of Chinese people, I'm not sure if you've heard of a game mah-jong, usually they playing for, a game usually will, will have a few thousand per transaction. So - - -

THE COMMISSIONER: Well, I suppose they're on relatively low wages, aren't they, waiters in the hospitality industry?---I suppose so, yeah.

And you're going to donate, you suggest that they're really donating out of the tips they make in their job?---Tips or money or, they have a lot of side
