

And do you remember generally what amounts of commission were to be paid to William once he got over the amount of say $200 million?---I can't remember exactly but it was certainly, I think it was more than $1 million.

And was any of this discussion about commission payments ever reduced to writing?---I certainly, when I met with him I typed up something or written down something about how it could work but it wasn't actually signed off on.

Did he ever send you anything in the nature of a consultancy agreement or anything like that?---Yes, he did but I didn't sign it.
